Students Compete On Stage at Islander Revue Extravaganza

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas – Performances inspired by Tim Burton's fantasy film "The Nightmare before Christmas" and the hip-hop culture will be showcased at the "Islander Revue" music and dance extravaganza Friday, Oct. 31, beginning at 6:30 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center at Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi.

Ten student groups and organizations will compete for $2,000 in cash prizes. The eighth annual "Islander Revue" is sponsored by Texas A&M-Corpus Christi's Student Foundation. There will also be a special performance by the Islanderettes Dance Team. Contestants will be judged on musical quality, creativity, choreography and entertainment value. Proceeds will fund student scholarships.
