University Artists Showcase ‘Converging Pathways’ Exhibit

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas – The Nexus Art Collective, a group of emerging artists who share the affiliation of graduate students in the Art Department at Texas A&M

University-Corpus Christi, will open its “Converging Pathways” exhibit with a reception Saturday, Oct. 4, from 6-8 p.m. at the Galeria Galvan, located in the Galvan House in Heritage Park.

The exhibition, sponsored by the Corpus Christi Parks & Recreation Department, will run through Saturday, Nov. 1. The Nexus Art Collective is composed of 11 artists whose philosophy is to create and exhibit fine art in the Corpus Christi area. Their works consist of an array of styles and themes in painting through various mediums. The event is free and open to the public.
