Exhibit Highlights A&M-Corpus Christi’s Collaboration with Museum of Contemporary Art in Skopje, Macedonia

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas – Macedonian artist Tihomir Topuzovski and co-curator Mira Gacina will be among the guests attending the exhibition “Cataclysm and Creativity: Art in the Age of Uncertainty” opening reception Thursday, Sept. 4, from 5-7 p.m. at Weil Gallery, Center for the Arts.

The collaboration between Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi and the Museum of Contemporary Art in Skopje, Macedonia, examines how artists from different cultures cope with issues of uncertainty. The exhibit will be on display through Saturday, Nov. 1.

The “Cataclysm and Creativity: Art in the Age of Uncertainty” panel discussion will follow Friday, Sept. 5, at 11 a.m. in Warren Theatre, Center for the Arts. The lecture, which will include attending artists, is free and open to the public.
