Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi Flute Festival Includes Performances and Workshops on Selecting the Best Instrument

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas – The Department of Music at Texas A&M University-

Corpus Christi will present a Flute Festival Saturday, Sept. 27, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Center for the Arts.

The festival will feature clinics on the ATSSB and 4A-5A All-State etudes by Diana Sipes, University associate professor of music. Special guests Bobbi Prewitt and Jason Blank will conduct clinics on flute repair and choosing the best flute.

There will be exhibits and a large selection of flutes and piccolos from intermediate to advanced levels available for trial and purchase and individual flute appointments available. The event is free and open to middle and high school students and their band directors, as well as college students and community members.
