Faculty Development and Faculty Development Leave

TAMU-CC College of Education and Human Development

(Last revised July 1, 2020)

The College of Education and Human Development encourages faculty members to participate in available university-based professional development opportunities (e.g, Center for Faculty Excellence opportunities) related to facilitating success in the faculty role (teaching, research & service). The COEHD also offers limited funding for faculty to attend professional development as it relates to their professional service role within the College.

The University provides for faculty development leave. Faculty interested in applying for faculty development leave should consult University Procedure 12.99.01.C0.01 (Faculty Development Leave). Faculty should also consult with the College of Education and Human Development Dean's Office regarding application deadlines and procedures for submitting an application.