Program Mission

The mission of the Master of Reading program in the Department of Curriculum, Instruction, and Learning Sciences is to prepare literacy specialists who have a deep knowledge of the reading and literacy processes; use theory, research, and current best practices to ensure and enhance their students’ learning; and use research to analyze and evaluate potential changes to PK-12 reading curriculum and practice. This mission supports the overarching missions of the Department of Curriculum, Instruction, and Learning Sciences, College of Education and Human Development, and Texas A&M University – Corpus Christi. The department’s emphasis on preparing graduates to be professionals in various learning environments through innovative teaching and research is reflected in the program’s mission of preparing knowledgeable literacy specialists who use research to analyze and evaluate reading curriculum and practice.
