Procedure Summary

This procedure establishes the faculty ombuds position at Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi (TAMU-CC) and defines their role. The faculty ombuds will function as a private, neutral resource for faculty to raise and clarify issues and concerns, identify options, and request assistance to informally resolve workplace concerns.

Procedure

1. GENERAL

- 1.1. The faculty ombuds works with faculty to resolve concerns prior to their escalating to a formal complaint. If this informal resolution of concerns fails, or where informal resolution is not advisable, the faculty ombuds will counsel faculty regarding their options for formal action and direct them to the appropriate university rules, procedures, resources, and offices. Faculty will be able to seek guidance regarding concerns at any time without fear of reprisal.
- 1.2. Concerns regarding civil rights discrimination, sexual harassment, and/or related retaliation must be filed in accordance with system regulation 08.01.01, Civil Rights Compliance and university rule 08.01.01.C1, Civil Rights Compliance. If a claim of illegal discrimination/retaliation is raised to the faculty ombuds, they will immediately report the issue to the Title IX Coordinator/Employee Development and Compliance Services department as directed by university rule 08.01.01.C1, Civil Rights Compliance. Concerns regarding research, ethics, waste/fraud, and abuse will be addressed in accordance with applicable system regulations and university procedures.

2. ROLE OF THE FACULTY OMBUDS

- 2.1. The faculty ombuds will provide a private place for faculty to collaboratively explore concerns, clarify issues, and consider options. As appropriate, the faculty ombuds will direct faculty toward available services and resources. Conversations may be kept private as described in section 3.1.3 of this procedure.

- 2.2. While the response of the faculty ombuds will be tailored to the dynamics of the situation and the nature of the concerns, generally the faculty ombuds' role will be to assist parties in reaching informal resolutions that are consistent with the university rules and procedures.
- 2.3. The faculty ombuds may supplement, but not replace or interfere with, formal processes available to the university community.
- 2.4. The faculty ombuds does not serve notice to the university, cannot impose remedies or sanctions, or enforce or change any university rules or procedures.

They will encourage and empower employees to find their own solutions to problems; provide support for addressing workplace problems; facilitate communication when conflict arises; and serve as a facilitator in group problem solving. With the interested party's consent, the faculty ombuds will consult with university units and departments to obtain more information about the issue, explore options for conflict resolution, and suggest the redirection of matters to formal channels when appropriate.
- 2.6. Annually, the faculty ombuds will inform the Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs (Provost) and the Faculty Senate executive committee of the type, volume, and severity of concerns and issues they observe. Reports will be written so as to maintain the privacy of individuals accessing the services of the faculty ombuds. This information will be useful in guiding policy decision-making efforts for the continual improvement of management, fairness, and respect at TAMU-CC.
- 2.7. It should be clearly understood by all parties that the faculty ombuds
 - 2.7.1. does not have any formal decision-making authority, or the ability to determine "Guilt" or "Innocence" in any matter;
 - 2.7.2. does not offer legal advice and does not act or appear to act as an advocate or representative of any individual or entity;
 - 2.7.3. does not offer psychological counseling;
 - 2.7.4. steps aside when a formal complaint is filed; and
