

BFA INTERIM CRITIQUE GUIDELINES

The Art Department Faculty reviews students' work and makes recommendations to approve or delay the final exhibition semester.

- Interim critiques occur in the semester preceding the BFA exhibition semester.
- At the Interim Critique, students must present a sampling of finished works (5 pcs. minimum) representative of the body of work they intend to exhibit in their BFA exhibition semester.
- Students must meet frequently with their professors in their studio area of interest during the last two semesters.
- Students must enroll in courses taught by professors in their studio area of interest in their final two semesters of study.
- Students must notify their major professor of their intention to graduate and exhibit their work prior to signing up for the Interim Critique.
