

What Else Would You Have Me Be:

I was once a concert photographer, and now my son is. We still take trips and go to see bands together. It is so much fun to see how my pictures and his pictures are similar and how they are different. This moment, it was quiet between songs. A sip and a set up for the next song. This is when I love taking pictures, but my son sat his camera down. He prefers action. This is action to me, there is a story here. This is when the heart and soul appear. When they are playing, then it is programmed and set... but this candid moment is when the magic happens for me. (Location Mohawk, Austin Texas, Band: Lucero, Ben Nichols taking a drink)
