Chair of Teacher Education at Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi Named to Executive Board of Science Teachers Association of Texas

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas – Dr. Denise Hill, chair of Teacher Education at Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi, has been named to the executive board of the Science Teachers Association of Texas (STAT).

Hill has been teaching in the College of Education at Texas A&M-Corpus Christi since fall 2002. During the 2008-2009 academic year, she received the University’s Faculty Teaching Excellence Award. In January 2009, she received a $349,984 grant from the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board to create the University’s Mathematics and Science Teacher Academy.

STAT is a non-profit organization of elementary, middle and high school teachers, college educators and supervisors of science. The organization keeps its more than 8,000 members informed about current trends in science education, and provides opportunities to view the latest in technology, curriculum, materials and services. For more information, go to www.statweb.org.
