CONHS Excels Throughout R&I Week 2023

During the Research and Innovation Week Kickoff on Monday, the CONHS Simulation and Clinical Learning Center team showcased new advances in virtual reality technology and its application in the classroom and across disciplines. The following day, members of the local media partnered with MarCom to present a Research Communication Panel and Workshop. As part of the workshop, the media representatives demonstrated how to effectively pitch a story about nursing scholarships in a manner that would garner the most interest.

Midweek, CONHS faculty and staff joined their TAMUCC colleagues to visit the Lone Star UAS Center of Excellence and Innovation Demonstration and see the drone program in action. On Thursday, Dr. Aziz moderated a multidisciplinary panel of researchers in a session entitled Inspiring Innovations and Reimagining Research. With a robust discussion, the panel highlighted the key components necessary to build an effective interdisciplinary team, and the importance of open dialogue and communication. That evening, faculty and staff enjoyed the opportunity to network and exchange ideas at a mixer hosted by CPIRA. And finally, on Friday, the CONHS was well represented at the Closing Awards Ceremony. Congratulations to DNP student Kelli Dahlgren mentored by Dr. Dixie Andelman earning an award in the Student Research Competition, Dr. Danielle Durant (PI) earning an award for the Research Enhancement Funding Program, and Dr. Kelly Lee (PI) and Dr. Meng Zhao (Co-PI) earning an award for the Texas Comprehensive Research Fund Program.
FIFTH SEMESTER STRESS RELIEF/SELF CARE EVENT

Enriching lives, advancing healthcare, one at a time.

Expanding Clinical Learning Experiences
CONHS faculty and staff visited the Corpus Christi Metro Ministries Gabbard Clinic to coordinate a unique new clinical education site for nursing and health science students. TAMUCC and Metro Ministries are addressing the health issues of those most in need in our community.

The 5th semester BSN students had a great time taking part in stress relieving activities including planting their own wildflower seeds, tapping into their creative sides via Islander coloring pages, and fellowshipping with each other. The SSO is hopeful this event will be a new tradition for final semester BSN students to look forward to!
CONHS Nursing Students ran into a special guest while at clinical at Spohn Shoreline.

Assistant Clinical Professor, Leigh Shaver's class welcomed a guest speaker from United Way of the Coastal Bend who led the Community Health Nursing students in a group activity to demonstrate impacts on a child's developing brain.
