Dr. Eve L. Layman receives Emeritus Status from Texas A&M System Board of Regents

In recognition of Dr. Eve Layman’s many years of distinguished service to Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi (TAMU-CC), Chancellor Sharp and the Texas A&M System Board of Regents have approved the University’s nomination of Dr. Layman as an Associate Professor Emeritus in the College of Nursing and Health Sciences (CONHS).

Dr. Layman’s tenure in the CONHS was fourteen years. She began as an Assistant Professor advancing to a tenured associate professor in 2007. Dr. Layman has demonstrated a significant commitment to TAMU-CC not only in teaching, scholarship, and service but in the administrative function of the college. In all areas, she has excelled in the expectations of her position. From 2001-2009 she was the graduate coordinator, managing the three tracts in the MSN program. She mentored faculty and advised students. Dr. Layman supervised and assisted in the transition of the MSN program to an online format. Since the program was statewide, additional responsibilities were to develop clinical sites and assist with hiring/orienting clinical preceptors. In 2009, she became the founding Associate Dean for Graduate Studies in CONHS until her retirement in 2015. Always the innovator, she was instrumental in establishing the collaborative Ph.D. with Texas Women University (TWU), bringing doctoral-level nursing to south Texas. In 2010, Dr. Layman drafted a white paper for the university administration, elucidating the reasons for going forward with a Doctor of Nursing Practice (DNP) Program. The path to establishing a DNP program was difficult and had many outside barriers. Dr. Layman persisted and the program was approved in spring 2016 and the first class was admitted in 2017.

Even while serving in administrative roles, Dr. Layman consistently worked to develop her scholarship, deliver innovative teaching, and expand her leadership contributions within Corpus Christi and Nueces County. Additionally, she served on multiple Department and College committees as well as several University committees.

Emeritus status is an honor and a recognition of an individual’s contributions to the University over the course of their career. Dr. Layman’s portfolio of work and accomplishments is impressive. She is commended for her extensive contributions and exemplary service to the campus and community.
