REPORT SUMMARY

Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi students who applied for graduation for the 2021-2022 academic year were invited to participate in a Graduating Student Survey to offer input about their experiences at the University. Participation in the questionnaire was voluntary and confidential. Both undergraduate and graduate students with valid email addresses who applied for graduation by the posted deadlines for the three semesters of the academic year (fall, spring, and summer) were invited to participate in the survey.

Graduate Students

Starting in 2016, the Graduating Student Survey included questions to be answered only by students receiving a Ph.D. or Master's degree. The responses from those students begin on p. 86. Graduate students were asked: if they worked on campus; if they felt prepared to practice at a higher level; about their online learning experience; and the amount of support from the department, college, and university.

Educational Outcomes

Since the mid-1970s, Higher Education literature has been replete with the importance of social and academic integration into the college community (Astin, 1993; Tinto, 1975, 1993). Simply stated, the more students are academically and socially integrated into college life, the more likely they are to persist and graduate. Thirty-six percent of the respondents indicated that they participated in the First-Year Islander learning communities. Eighty-three percent of those who participated enjoyed the experience, found it helped develop a sense of belonging here, and how to use campus resources. Fifty-eight percent of graduates who participated in the learning community are still in contact with professors or peers from the group. These numbers, along with myriad comments praising the experience, indicate the program is highly successful.

Over 80% of the respondents were satisfied with academic advising and 87% were satisfied with the quality of the core curriculum. Ninety-two percent of the respondents were satisfied with their overall education at Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi. The lowest satisfaction score in this section was with students' financial investment in their education, 72%.

Likelihood of Attending Again/Recommending A&M-Corpus Christi

Seventy-nine percent would recommend TAMUCC to a prospective student and 84% would recommend their program.

Registration

Twenty-four percent of the respondents indicated that courses in their major were always or often closed when they went to register. Only 10% found courses not in their major were always or often closed when they went to register.

Academic Major Experiences

The items receiving the highest ratings of satisfaction with major are as follows:

- The fairness of the grading practices in your major (94%).
- The academic challenge of coursework in your major (92%).
- The interest of faculty in your major in the welfare of students (92%).
- The mutual respect between students and faculty in your major (91%).
- The preparation of faculty in your major for their courses (89%).
- The quality of instruction in your major (88%).
- The feedback from faculty in your major on your academic progress (86%).
- The availability of your faculty advisor (86%).

The items receiving the lowest ratings of satisfaction with major are as follows:

- The frequency that required courses are offered in your major (81%).
- The variety of advanced course offerings in your major (82%).

Career Services

Over 52% of students who used career services scored most of their offerings, such as Job Postings, Career Counseling, Internships, etc. as Very helpful/helpful. The most valuable help from Career Services was with Resume Review (97% found Very helpful/helpful), and Mock Interviews (76% found Very helpful/helpful). The lowest satisfaction score was with Special Events at 44%. For the most part, students are very satisfied with Career Services.

Employment Information

- 41% of respondents already found a job for after graduation, 35% are actively looking.
- 76% of respondents report that they will most likely work full time after graduation.
- 43% of respondents report their job is in the Coastal Bend region.
- 67% of respondents indicated that their job after graduation is directly related to their major.
- 26% of respondents report that their job after graduation is somewhat related to their major.
- The highest number of graduates, 22%, will be earning a salary of $50,000 - $59,000 a year.
- The next highest number of graduates, 15%, will be earning $1000,000 or over a year.

Future Educational Plans

- 26% of respondents report that they have applied for graduate school.
- 28% intend to apply to a graduate school.
- 46% indicated that they do not plan to apply to graduate school.

Response Rate

A total of 2,512 survey invitations went out to students who had applied for graduation by the deadline. There were 468 respondents who answered at least two questions that equates to over 19% of the sampled graduating student population for the 2021-2022 academic year. In 2020-21, 676 students answered at least two questions on the online survey, which was 24% of the sampled graduating student population for the 2021-2022 academic year. There has been a proliferation of surveys on campus during the last year. It may be that the over-surveying of students is responsible for the small increase of response rate.

Methodology

The Dillman method, which employs multiple contacts with the potential respondents, in this case via email, was used each semester to contact the students who had applied for graduation. An initial invitation was sent with four subsequent reminders to those who had not yet answered. Contacts were made through the students' University e-mail addresses.

Reporting

For navigational ease, key findings are grouped into separate categories by theme/construct. College/Division units should strive to obtain an overall positive combined rating of 75% for each item assessed. To determine the overall positive combined rating for each item assessed, the Office of Planning, Analytics, Institutional Research, and Strategic Initiatives (PAIRS) recommends combining the percentage scores received for "Very Satisfied"/"Satisfied" Likert-type scale options, as these responses indicate a positive response conveyed by the student assessing the item.

About the frequency responses:

Respondents did not necessarily answer all questions on the survey. Therefore, the totals may or may not match on any particular question.

About percentages:

Valid percent means the percentage based on the number of people who answered the question, not the percentage of all the people who answered any question. Percentages are rounded to the nearest whole number, except when less than 1% in which case the exact percentage is reported.

Career Services

The responses to the questions about career services were not straightforward. Even though the students were asked to first check yes or no if they used the item and second indicate how helpful it was, many students marked only one or the other. Because of this, the total number of people who indicated they used the assistance does not match the total number of responses for the degree of helpfulness.

A note about the survey instrument – the information in the blue boxes are directions for Qualtrics. Usually it is to show a particular question only to students who answered a previous question in a certain way. For example, if you answered that you were in the College of Business, only the options for Departments and Majors in that college appear to you. You do not see all the options for all the colleges.
